EARTHQUAKES SHAKE ITALY

People of Rome Panic-Stricken and Rush Into Streets.

20,000 ARE KILLED.

Unprecedented Destruction in Provinces of Abruzzi and Potenza—Government Aid.

Rome, Jan. 14—Another earthquake shock of perceptible strength was felt at 3 o'clock this morning here. It created a panic among the people who already were terrified and thousands rushed into the streets in their night clothing.

So far as is known no additional damage resulted.

The death toll of yesterday's earthquake which left a trail of unprecedented destruction throughout the provinces of Abruzzi and Potenza continues to grow.

The government today officially announced that Avezzano has been destroyed and the town of Sora very badly damaged.

Efforts to restore communication with the province of Potenza are being made and it is feared that when the story of the visitation there is known it will show an enormous casualty list.

The center of the earthquake was in this province and unofficial reports received by messengers sent to the nearest open telegraph line, say that the capital, Potenza, also suffered greatly.

It is believed that the death list will reach 20,000 at the least when all reports are in.

The government is taking energetic steps to rescue the victims and to restore the shattered towns. The military has assumed charge and troops are being rushed into the devastated area already with all possible speed. Doctors and medical supplies are already on the way.

The area that suffered from the earthquake is included in the territory through the heart of Italy from the Mediterranean to the Adriatic There is included some several hundred square miles, extending on the west from Rome to Naples and thence direct east, through the peninsula to the Adriatic.

NEWS OF THE DAY

Plans are under way in Japan for the organization of a volunteer army to be sent to Europe, according to the Jiji, a Tokyo newspaper.

Wheat stormed dizzy heights, selling at $1.41 repeatedly on the Chicago board of trade yesterday, and closing at $1.43¾, only 1 cent under the uppermost record made since the war begun.

Two men were burned to death and forty persons were driven out in a panic—into a sleet storm yesterday when fire swept a four-story tenement house at Fore and Center streets, in Portland, Me.

Another German submarine attack against Dover was attempted yesterday, but was repelled by the forts guarding the harbor. When the submarines were seen the land batteries opened fire and the vessels disappeared:

All ordinary passenger traffic was stopped yesterday over most of the railroads of Germany until January 18. This measure was taken to expedite the movements of troops and munitions of war, to which traffic the railroads will be given over almost entirely.

New revolutionary troubles in Haiti have assumed such proportions that the cruiser Washington, now in Hampton Roads, has been ordered to take abroad 100 marines, in addition to her present force of 46, and proceed at once to Guanacaybo Bay, on the coast of Cuba, within easy reach of Haiti..

Charles Kimbrough, colored, choir leader in a Saginaw, Mich., church, was arraigned yesterday on the charge of having murdered 8-year-old Rose Fernier who disappeared from her grandmother's home on the evening of January 3. The day after the child disappeared, ashes were taken from the fire beneath a boiler in the plant where Kinbrough was employed. The negro insists that he is innocent.

The British military authorities consider that a Turkish attack from Palestine cannot be deferred much longer. The forces that the German officers are bringing against Egypt are large, and if they get within striking distance of the British lines they will make a determined effort to break through. Their object is not to win victories for the Turks, but to distract the attention of Great Britain from West Flanders.

"After Dr. Mertz died I debated with myself for two days whether to eat him or bury him. I finally buried him. When I took off my boots the soles of my feet came off with them. There was nothing to do but bandage the pieces back on and proceed in agony toward my base. For thirty-nine days I lived on the meat of a single dog, and during eight of those days another man had been living on that same dog. For thirty-one days I was alone on the ice. I had no soles on my feet and my hair all fell out. But finally I got back to my base." These are the extracts from a narrative told by Sir Douglas Mawson, who is to lecture before the American Geographic Society on his explorations in the antarctic.

Advices from Constantinople report the arrival at the Turkish capital of many wounded from the Dardanelles, where the bombardment continues. Some of the wounded came from the French hospital, over which the Turks flew the Turkish flag. The American Ambassador protested against this and insisted that the Turkish flag should be replaced by the American flag should bemht by the American flag because French interests were in the care of the American Embassy. His demand was heeded.

Jakeson Statue.

Richmond, Jan. 14.—The refusal of the Board of Aldermen Tuesday night to adopt an amendment to the measure appropriating $10,000 for the Jackson Monument, striking from the ordinance the section locating the proposed statue of "Stonewall" Jackson at Monument Avenue and the Boulevard, prevented the measure from receiving the two-thirds vote required for its passage.

UPHOLDS WEST VIRGINIA LAW

Prohibition Statute Held to be Valid by Appellate Court.

STOPS ALL SHIPMENTS.

Consignee Must Show Common Carriers That Goods Were Ordered Without Solicitation.

Richmond, Jan. 14.—Unless the consignee can show conclusively that liquor was ordered by him for his own personal use, without advertisement on the part of the consignor and without solicitation by letter or otherwise, common carriers may be restrained from making deliveries within the State of West Virginia. This decision was made yesterday by Judge C. A. Woods, of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, who, in a lengthy opinion, reversed the lower court, and entered an order in favor of the State of West Virginia, restraining the Adams Express Company from making a delivery of an interstate shipment. The court upheld the rigid prohibitory laws of West Virginia in every particular.

The case was the first brought by Fred O. Blue, State Commissioner of Prohibition, to test the laws of West Virginia, wihch went "dry" on July 1, 1914. The bill of complaint was filed on September 15, against the Adams Express Company, the shipper and the consignee, in the Kanawha county Circuit Court, for the Southern District of West Virginia, at Charleston, where on October 19 the injunction was dissolved by Judge Keller. An appeal was noted, and the case came into the appellate court here one month later, and was advanced for a hearing on the docket, in order that the controversy could be settled.

SETBACK TO PROHIBITION

Vote in Senate Yesterday Practically Kills Measure.

When the Senate yesterday by a vote of 41 to 34, insisted upon the sanctity of its rules and decided that they could be suspended only by a two-third vote, the proposed amendment of Senator Sheppard, of Texas to impose prohibition upon the people of the District of Columbia was practically killed.

Many senators expressed the belief last night that this action effectually and finally disposed of all attempts to enact this legislation in the shape of a rider to the District appropriation bill. Senator Sheppard, however, has not given up his fight, and if he can discover some other avenue along which to travel he will renew the fight before the bill is concluded.

RICHMOND TONIGHT.

At the Richmond Theatre tonight there will be shown six excellent reels, affording a splendid entertainment for the evening.

On next Tuesday night and afternoon the beautiful photo-dramatization of Marie Corelli's famous novel, the "Vendetta," will be produced in five parts.

This wonderful picture is presented by George Kleine, through the General Film Company, Incorporated, as one of this writer's greatest masterpieces. The expression, "Vengeance is Mine," is strongly characterized at this thrilling moment.

JUSTIFIES UNION THREATS

Hard Right to Drive Man Out of Business, Says Judge.

New York, Jan. 14—Judge Louis D. Gibbs, of the Bronx County court directed a jury yesterday to bring in a verdict of not guilty in the case of five members of labor unions on trial for having caused a strike and threatening with violence their employer and men brought to take their places. The men were members of stonecutters' union employed by a contractor engaged by the city.

"I fail to see where any crime has been committed," said Judge Gibbs "Labor has the right to organize to protect its rights and to use every legal methods to get shorter hours and higher wages. If in doing so somebody else is injured, labor cannot be held responsible for it.

"They have the same right to protect themselves and, if necessary, to drive a person out of business that a business man has when he reduces prices to drive competitors out of business."

STUART FAVORS SEGREGATION

Admits He Has Changed His Mind Since Last Session

EDUCATION OF POOR.

Executive Believes Rich Should Contribute to School the Poor—Says This is Not Local Issue.

Richmond, Jan. 14—In his message to the Legislature, read yesterday Governor Stuart makes it plain that the time has come for an adjustment of the tax situation that all necessary information is at hand, that the public is ready for a change and that every one looks to the Legislature for speedy results.

While the Governor's message is rather a judicial discussion of the tax question that an argument for any any particular method of reform, it leaves no doubt that the plan of adjustment he favors is that of partial segregation.

The Governor recommends that the tax rates be made as low as is consistent; that property owners be encouraged to make proper returns; that the State Auditor of Public Accounts be given the power necessary to discover and tax unlisted intangible property, and that the State in general be given just as much authority in collecting its dues as is now enjoyed by the Federal Government in collecting Federal taxes within the limits of the State.

Partcular mention is made of the fact that about sixty counties in Virginia take out of the State Treasury more than they put in. The Governor does not blame them for this when it results from a disproportionate distribution of property.

The Governor devotes a considerable part of his message to the public school question. He shows the result of collecting taxes upon the basis of property value and distributing it upon the basis of school population. He believes that the rich should contribute toward the education of the poor; that education is not purely a local matter, but should have the unqualified support of the whole State.

"Wealth and school population," the message says, "have no necessary relation to each other. On the contrary the rule is that the largest school populations are found in communities least able within themselves to supply education."

Conditions Unchanged at the Plant Today—53 Men Out.

There was no change in conditions at the Portner Brewery today. The brewers, bottlers and drivers who went out this week were still idle, but the engineers and firemen were at their posts. Fifty-thre men are on strike.

National officers of the unions to which the men belong were here today examining into conditions, and they held a conference with the brewery officials. The latter have offered to submit the dispute to a board of arbitration, to be composed of two men representing the brewery and two the unions. Should they fail to agree, the fifth man could be called in. The conference took a recess at which time no movement toward settling the dissatisfaction had been made.

Falls Into Sewer.

Kinston, N. C., Jan. 14.—As a result of injuries received when he fell into an open sewer containing boiling water from a nearby manufacturing plant, the 10-year-old son of George Conway and wife, of Southeast Kinston, is slowly dying. The little fellow tried to leap across the ditch instead of crossing it at one of several covered places nearby, but miscalculated the width and tumbled headlong into the hot stream. He was fearfully scalded before he could climb out. Another child of the same parents, a girl, is in bed from burns sustained when she turned a pot of boiling lard over upon herself several weeks ago.

MEETS TO REVISE STATE TAX SYSTEM

BothHouses of Legislature Convene in Extraordinary Session.

OTHER LEGISLATION.

Permissable Matters Can Be Considered With Consent of Both Houses of the General Assembly.

Richmond, Jan. 14—The General Assembly has moved to the task of so rectifying the mistakes of the existing tax code that the burden of taxes upon the people of the Commonwealth shall be equalized; that the rich and the poor shall bear, each according to their homes, a fair and just share of the taxes. That is the specific purpose for which the extraordinary session of the legislature was called.

But the popular idea that the present unsatisfactory system of taxation is to be suspended immediately by an equitable, fair and just plan that will give needed relief to the overburdened taxpayers, and compel the tax dodger to contribute to the State's revenues in proportion to the privileges and profits he enjoys through residence and business interests that are his is shared by few if any members of the legislature.

Few of the members of either branch believe that either of the plans submitted by the Tax Commission will be accepted by the General Assembly as a whole. Some express the belief that a partial segregation system will be adopted, a system under which public utility corporations will be made liable to taxation by the State alone, and freed of local taxation. There are many who confess that they are unable at this time to predict intelligently what the fruits of the special session will be.

The one significant move made by the Assembly at the initial session yesterday was the adoption of a joint resolution prohibiting the introduction of any bills except measures affecting the tax system without the consent of both houses. The adoption of the resolution by practically a unanimous vote is taken to indicate the sincerity and earnestness of the lawmakers and their determination to agree upon a new system of taxation, if it can be consistently done, or at least to amend the present system to the best possible advantage.

There was ample evidence on the opening day to show that the commission plan recommended by the tax Commision is not popular. It has more adherents in the Senate than in the House of Delegates, but the majority that does not regard it with favor is overwhelming.

The preference for the partial segregation form was manifested strikingly at the opening session by the enthusiastic and prolonged applause that followed the reading of the Governor's message in each of the houses.

TUESDAY NIGHT'S STORM.

Steamers on Chesapeake Bay Had Thrilling Experience During Heavy Blow.

While the wind roared in Alexandria and vicinity Tuesday night and rain fell in torrents, the force of Old Boreas was mild compared with his outburst on Chesapeake Bay and the Virginia coast. It registered about thirty miles an hour in this neighborhood, while below us it attained double that gait.

From Hatteras to New York, the Atlantic Seaboard was swept by the gale, which reached its maximum of sixty miles an hour shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday morning. During the early part of Tuesday night the wind was raging through a downfall of rain on Chesapeake Bay, which developed into snow between midnight and 1 o'clock.

With the cessation of the rain and snow, the wind began growing in velocity, until it reached sixty miles.

The steamer Southland, bound for Norfolk, and the Northland, on her way up, rode out the storm. The Southland reached Fortress Monroe ahead of time, having been aided by the wind, and the Northland reached Alexandria half an hour late.

DR. GREEN'S LECTURE

"The Bible and How to Study It" Handled in an Interesting Manner.

Dr. Berryman Green in Christ Church Parish Hall last night delivered a clear and concise address on "The Bible and How to Study It."

His remarks were prefaced by the appropriate text, the 31st verse of the 25th chapter of St. Luke—"Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away."

In opening his address Dr. Green said that the Latin derivation of the word Bible was feminine singular and the Greek neuter plural, both of which were correct, as the Bible is the Book of Books. The period of fifteen centuries covered by the Bible and the fact that more than forty authors, kings, rulers, fishermen, shepherds, men of high and low birth, writing in prose or verse, each in language couched in his own style, all pointing to the one harmonious theme of God, their Creator, prove this harminous truth. This was likened, in a small way, to an orchestra of forty pieces, each rendering, by varied note or chord, a harmonious symphony—one mind behind it all.

The scientific fact of there being no limit to illumination was applied to other things than literal light, and especially the Bible, advising study about the Bible. The Bible is all important, but not all that is important. Then the study of the Bible itself, Dr. Green explained, convincingly the primacy and unity of the Bible.

Dr. Green called attention to the common error in Sunday schools and Bible classes of studying a portion of the Scriptures apart from the work in which it is written, as each part bears upon the other in significance and meaning.

The test of the truthfulness of the words of his text, he gave, was usefulness; as long as the utility of anything lasts it lives. The sin-sick, the grief-stricken, the sorrowful will always cling to the comfort of God's words, and even as he quoted the beautiful lines of a hymn of promise, the "Come Unto Me, Rest," rang true with its usefulness of bringing happiness.

At the close of his lecture the audience were permitted questions of the so-well-informed student and minister of the gospel. The concordance that was advised was "Hasting's One Volume Concordance."

ITALY SHAKEN BY EARTHQUAKE.

While almost universal carnage is augmenting the distress of this storm-tossed planet and when thousands are being killed, crippled, frozen to death and starved, the powers of nature are active. Storms are frequently killing people and destroying human habitations and while the pittiless elements are at work the earth itself is being shaken. Earthquakes have been in evidence ever since man was placed upon this globe, but the fearful seismic disaster which has overtaken Italy, the second within a few years, comes from our finite minds, at an opportune time, synchronous with wars and humors of wars.

According to meagre accounts, about as many people as are contained within the boundaries of the city of Alexandria are dead today as the result of the convulsion of nature yesterday.

The Pope was bending upon the altar at the Vatican while the foundations of the earth were quivering. The pontiff was saying mass when the shock was felt and the chalice shook in his hand and nearly fell. He held fast to the edge of the altar and was very calm, and in a moment knelt and prayed. As the vibration ceased, the Pope resumed the ceremony in a steady voice.

Italy, up to the wise course of her statesmen has, so far, been steered clear of the war now raging about her. But a horror, equally great, has caused widespread distress and the news is flashed that some of her oldest and most interesting cities have been laid low and thousands have perished. There is now weeping and wailing, as parents search for their children and children their parents around the debris of what a day or two ago were happy homes.

Rome was terribly shaken by the quake and the greatest alarm was caused. Nearly the entire population rushed into the streets panic-stricken, and remained out of doors throughout last night, afraid to seek their beds, anxious lest other shocks should be felt.

The column of Marcus Aurelius, which has stood in the eternal city for centuries and been gazed upon by many generations, was twisted.

But a short time has elapsed since Messina and Reggio suffered terribly from earthquake, and in less time than it has taken to blunt the edge of the terrible sorrow the country is facing another equally as horrible.

RUSH TO HEAR BILLY SUNDAY

It seems strange that while pulpits throughout the country are filled by preachers trained in theological seminaries who have made the Bible and spiritual matters close studies, often find their voices reverberating around empty pews while thousands of people are being turned away at halls where so-called evangelists are delivering addresses. Is it the fault of the ministers or the people? While we fail to see the lasting good from the many religious upheavals brought about by self-constituted preachers who are responsible to no one for what they say or the doctrines they proclaim, the fact remains that they are generally drawing cards at a time when it is impossible to fill the pews of the established churches.

Sunday has determined to deliver an address in Convention Hall in Washington next Monday afternoon, and during the past two or three days the demand for tickets of admission has been great. As only a certain number can be accommodated it was necessary to send in applications for tickets in advance, and the first who came have been the first served. Of course, several thousand persons, anxious to hear the revivalist, will be unable to do so.

Not since the time Jenny Lind appeared in Washington, at the beginning of the fifties, has there been such a demand for tickets to hear or see any one.

We have never heard Sunday, but judging from the reports of his discoures which have been appearing in Philadelphia papers, his harangues are mostly in the shape of exploiting the alleged parodies upon the Christian religion. We have failed to find one original thought apart from that of the ridiculous. His addresses contain few spiritual themes or any ideas from the Bible calculated to cheer any one on the road to the celestial city.

There is much in our day which is calculated to bring forth criticism of churches but magnifying parodies is not all of the preaching of the gospel.

It is said, and truly, of Charles Dickens that he never described a gentleman in any of his works. He painted the pictures of frauds and counterfeits nicely. It is noticed that some proclaimers of the gospel never present pictures of true Christians, but factitious ones. Sunday is by no means the only man who has fallen into this practice.

Such people may mean well, but they have much to learn of the spiritual life before they should attempt to teach others.

GERMAN PRESSURE ON ALLIES

Austrians Claim Victory in Eastern War Zone.

Paris, Jan 14—The German pressure on the allied lines northeast of Sioccons in increasing the Germans having apparently determined to retake their orinigal positions no matter what it may cost.

Reports say that additional German troops are being brought into action as well as in the neighborhood of Rheims. The German artillery is shelling the city of Rheims again, while the infantry is reported as engaged between Rheims and Perthes, where the fighting is severe.

Activity also is reported today on the Heights of the Meuse, but elsewhere, the reports indicate, only artillery is in action.

Vienna, Jan. 14.—Claims of a decisive Austrian success along the lower Nida were made by the war office. It was stated that the Russian attempts to cross the river have been definitely abandoned, following the inflicting of very heavy losses on the attacking forces. In Galicia and the Carpathian region there has been only minor fighting.

EDITOR'S UNUSUAL FUNERAL

Lay Friend Preaches and "Old Kentucky Home" is Sung.

Philadelphia, Jan. 14—Unique and unusual ceremonies marked the obsequies held yesterday over the late A. B. Clark, former owner and publisher of a weekly newspaper known as Cracks, at his home 2533 South Broad street.

In addition to services conducted by a minister of the Gospel, a friend of the deceased preached. In lieu of the customary hymns the old-time folk song, "My Old Kentucky Home," was sung. Many friends and relatives assembled to hear the novel observances.

It was in compliance with the late editor's will that the double funeral rites were conducted. He also expressed a dying wish that one of his friends sing the folk song instead of the usual hymns. Another request was that he be creamated, and this was done.

AUSTRIA'S ANTI-WAR PARTY

Popular Resentment Against Man Who Presipitated Carnage.

Berlin, Jan. 14—Official announcement was made yesterday that Count Leopold von Berchtold, Austrian minister for foreign affairs, has resigned and that his successor has been appointed by Emperor Francis Joseph.

The announcement, as given out by the German Imperial Press Bureau says:

"The Austrian Emperor has agreed to the renewed demand that he accept the resignation of Minister for Foreign Affairs Conut von Berchtold which was tendered for important personal reasons.

"Count von Berchtold's successor has been appointed. He is the Baron Stephan Burian von Rajecz, Hungarian minister at the Imperial Court and formerly minister of finance and chief of administration for Bosnia and Herzegovian.

"The change came unexpectedly."

The resignation of Count von Berchtold, and the terms in which that resignation is announced in Berlin are the strongest evidence that has yet come out of Germany or Austria of the truth of the reports that a strong anti-war party is making itself felt in Austro-Hungary.

So far as appears on the surface Count von Berchtold, more than any other man in Europe, was responsible for the present world-war. He it was who sent the ultimatum to Servia that precipitated the crisis which has drawn independent powers into war and already has resulted in the utter devastation of Poland and Belgium.

Von Berchtold, in the popular Austrian mind, stood for the war. His policy "of blood and iron" was often compared to that of Bismark, and he has indeed, frequently been referred to as "the Bismark of Austria."

He was credited extraordinary power over the aged Emperor and when the war began to go badly for Austria arms, popular resentment was manifested against the man, who presumably had brought the war about.

A early as last November rumors reached the outer world by way of Rome that von Berchtold would be forced to resign. These rumors were of course denied. The statement issued in Berlin yesterday, however that the Emperor "had agreed to the renewed demand" for the resignation of the minister of foreign affairs leaves room for the assumption that the resignation was forced by popular clamor.

The announcement that the resignation was "tendered for important personal reasons," and the official addition "that the change came unexpectedly," do not detract from the probability that a serious cabinet crisis had risen in the Austro-Hungarian empire.

NORFOLK LOSES

Possession of Property Valued at $2,000,000 Settled.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 14—The right to the possession of Norfolk city property valued at approximately $2,000,000 has been finally determined by a decision rendered by the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia in the actions of ejectment brought by the City of Norfolk against the Southern Railway Company and the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company to recover the possession of a part of what is popularly known as the Town Point land.

The court in an opinion delivered by Judge John A. Buchanan decided in favor of the defendant companies who now occupy certain of the lands under leases from the city, and thus forever established the right to the possission of the property, which question has been pending in the courts for several years.

Fusion Leader Dies.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 14.—Telegraphic information has been reecived here of the death of Albert C. Cromwell, for many years sheriff of Norfolk County, who passed away a few days ago at Blue Ridge Summit, Pa., where he had been stopping for about three years.

Owing to the condition of his health he had to resign his position as sheriff here last year.

KILLED BY HIS BROTHER.

Gilbert Nesselrodt is Victim of Accident While Hunting.

Harrisonburg, Va., Jan. 14.—While hunting in the Allegheny Mountains, Gilbert Nesselrodt, 21 years old, was accidentally shot and killed by the discharge of a shotgun in the hands of his older brother, John Nesselrodt. The family lives near Brandywine, Pendleton county, W. Va., about 35 miles west of Harrisonburg.

ALLEGED GERMAN DREAMS.

War of 1870 Pitiless, This One Diabolical, Emile Boutroux's Description.

Paris, Jan. 14.—M. Emile Boutroux, the philosopher and speaker, who has visited American universities on several occasions, has written the following comparison between 1870 and 1914:

"It is often said, and with some reason, that knowledge of the past is an aid to understanding the present. I believe, however, that the souvenirs of 1870 are rather of a nature to mislead our judgment on the present war. The difference between 1870 and 1914, between Bismarck and William II, is profound.

"Assuredly the war of 1870 was an event of enormous import. It was to assure the preponderance in Europe of Germany, conquered by Prussia. But Bismarck, who remained, on the whole, a diplomatist of the old school, still admitted that there existed in the world other powers besides Germany, other forms of civilization besides Germanic culture. And he made no claim to the German hegemony either on the seas or outside Europe.

"The present war is quite another thing, both as to its ends and its means. Wiliam II's subjects are no longer content with the hegemony. They have got it into their heads that they are infinitely superior to other peoples, that they are, moreover, the strongest, and that in consequence they have the right to wish for all that pleases them. And they lay claim to nothing less than to seize in the entire world all that is to their convenience and put all the rest under them in a way to exploit it to their profit. It no longer suffices them that Germany should be over all; they intend that she should be all.

"If the Germans were conquerors there would be as a conclusion to this war neither treaty nor annexation in the true sense of these two words. A treaty is only for Germany of today a scrap of paper to be torn up when it becomes an annoyance, and the experiment made in Alsace-Loraine has succeeded in proving to the Germans that they are unable to win the sympathy of an annexed people. Germany, then, if she won the day would purely and simply impose her will on the conquered and would expel from the countries which she took to herself all the inhabitants not massacred."
